

DOLLS HOUSE
NIKA ZUPANC

Slovenian designer Nika Zupanc made her mark in the Zona Tortona with her Dolls House installation, a cartoon-like house clad in black-and-white polka dots with sculptural smoke billowing from its chimney. Inside, a display of Zupanc's furniture and objects included Sofas in C Minor, and a series of prototype cradles. Elsewhere at the Saloni, Zupanc showed the Lolita light at Moooi (left) and the Tailored chair at Moroso. The Dolls House was developed with cladding company, Trimo, which showed its modular facade system, Qbiss, in Milan for the first time.
